- Other information to support a sole-source buy:

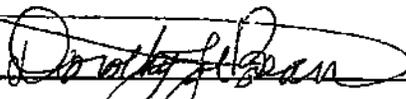

LOGIQUEST is a web based part research service that aggregates many disparate sources of government and commercial information. It provides simple, yet very powerful, access to information about millions of active and historical parts, using NIINs (National Item Identification Number) to identify them. Information about each item includes: part numbers, characteristics, suppliers, procurement history, replacement and alternate parts, supply management, and branch-specific information.

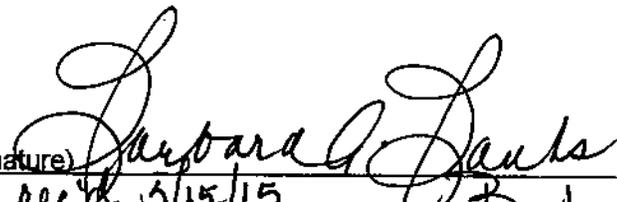

LOGIQUEST has indexed logistics related internet web pages, and integrates that and other external information sources into one common user experience. Multiple search interfaces ranging from a single line interface to more advanced searching satisfies the needs of the novice to the power user.

LOGIQUEST includes powerful, time-saving tools such as: batch processing; downloading of data into formats suitable for use in other popular programs such as Excel; and custom report and download designers. Users can customize downloads, reports and even the displays to minimize the time needed to find the specific information they need.
