

	Question	Response
1	The announcement indicates representatives from the Government of Japan will “observe” the selection process. Will these representatives have any voting rights or be able to influence the selection ?	Representatives from the Government of Japan do not serve as U.S. government officials and will not have influence in the source selection process.
2	Government of Japan be involved in any of the design projects other than by simply providing funding ?	Representatives from the Government of Japan will review design submittals and participate in meetings which include design workshops and facilities analysis concept development (FACD).
3	Are there any requirements that would necessitate inclusion of a Japanese firm in our team ?	There are no requirements for inclusion of a Japanese or foreign firm.
4	How many awards do you expect to make under this IDIQ ?	A single-award contract is contemplated.