AMENDMENT 0002

The following is the Official Government Response to Request for Information (RFI) #6. The answer below replaces the response previously given in Amendment 0001 for RFI #6.

RFI	Question/Inquiry	Government Response
6	We would be the main contractor and we would subcontract the other company's services. In this scenario would they also need to be registered into SAM and have a DUNS number and NCAGE code? Also can we use their certifications in order to fulfill all requirements?	Only the Contractor who is responding to the solicitation (placing the bid) needs to be registered in SAM. The sub-contractors only need to comply with the requirements as described in the solicitation. Proposals received from Prime Contractors which do not have an appropriate Certificate of Classification under this contract, shall be required to subcontract a firm with the Certificate of Classification as described in the Solicitation. Proposals received from firms, either prime contractors or subcontractors, which do not have individually or jointly an appropriate Certificate of Classification shall be considered non-responsive. (page 13 of the solicitation)

FACTOR 4 – SAFETY - the original solicitation (page 20 and page 21) is replaced with the following as changes have been made to the Basis for Evaluation for Safety:

(a) Submittal Requirements:

The Offeror shall submit the following information:

- (1) Technical Approach for Safety: Describe the Offeror's technical approach to safety for its employees as well as the plan that the Offeror will implement to evaluate and measure safety performance of potential subcontractors, as a part of the selection process for all levels of subcontractors. The narrative shall address each contractor that is part of the partnership or joint venture, if applicable. The Safety Narrative shall be limited to two pages.

(b) Basis of Evaluation:

A subjective assessment that the Offeror has consistently demonstrated a commitment to safety and that the Offeror plans to properly manage and implement safety procedures for itself. In the event that the Offeror is using subcontractors, then the Contractor must demonstrate that it has a commitment to properly managing and implementing safety procedures for its subcontractors.

The Government will evaluate the Offeror's overall safety record. If the Offeror plans to use subcontractors it must clearly state that in its proposal and must demonstrate its plan to select and monitor subcontractors. The Government's sources of information for evaluating safety may include, but are not limited to, Government agencies, OSHA, Contractor Incident Reporting System (CIRS) databases, and other related resources/local resources. While the Government may elect to consider data from other sources, the burden of providing detailed, current, accurate and complete safety information regarding these submittal requirements rests with the Offeror. The evaluation will collectively consider the following:

- Offeror Technical Approach to Safety
- Other sources of information available to the Government

Technical Approach to Safety: The Government will evaluate the narrative to determine the degree to which the Offeror will monitor its safety performance or the safety performance of its subcontractors as well as the selection of all levels of subcontractors. The Government will also evaluate the narrative to determine the degree to which innovations are being proposed that may enhance safety on this procurement. Those Offerors whose plan demonstrates a commitment to hire subcontractors with a culture of safety and who propose innovative methods to enhance a safe working environment may be given a higher rating in the evaluation.
